Picturing the Past -

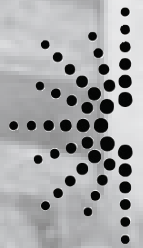

Kodiak's Alutiiq People in Photographs

By Marnie Leist, Registrar, Alutiiq Museum

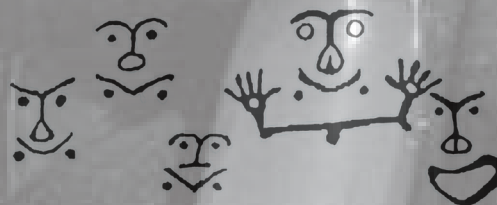

Photographs preserve moments from the past, allowing viewers to peer back into time to witness events, experience places, and observe daily life. The photograph collections cared for by the Alutiiq Museum capture life in the Kodiak archipelago from the late 1800s through the present day. This visual tour of the collections illustrates major trends in Alutiiq history as seen in the images of explorers, scientists, and community members.
